CONCORDIA COLLEGE
Moorhead Minnesota, USA

UNIVERSITY OF TOURS
France

In the interests of expanding educational opportunities, Concordia College and the University of Tours agree to promote cooperation under the following provisions:

Academic cooperation

Academic cooperation of various and several kinds is encouraged by this agreement. Cooperative arrangements outside this agreement will be negotiated and articulated as needed and mutually agreeable.

Cooperation coordinator

Each party appoints a coordinator responsible for coordination and administration of the cooperation outlined in this agreement.

Student exchange

Each institution will seek to send students and receive the equivalent number in exchange annually. Tuition fees are waived by the host institution for exchange students. Exchange students are responsible for costs not covered by tuition such as lessons, room, board, security deposit, utilities, required insurance, telecommunications, Internet, transportation, books, residence permit, passport, visa, and personal expenses.

Terms of exchange

The parties will exchange students on a one-to-one equal exchange basis for both semester and yearlong study (one year exchange being equal to two semesters). If an unequal exchange ratio occurs in any year, a balance will be achieved over the following two-year period. If the balance cannot be achieved over three years, the exchange will be suspended until balance is achieved. Only students undertaking undergraduate study are eligible for exchange.

Study abroad option

When the exchange has been suspended or the parties otherwise agree, students may attend the host institution as fee-paying study abroad students. Tuition and other fees for study abroad students will conform to the standard international student policy of the host institution.

Academic status

All exchange and study abroad students remain enrolled as regular degree candidates at the home institution and are not enrolled as candidates for degrees at the host institution. Students are expected to maintain full-time status at the host institution and are expected to return to the home institution unless both parties approve an extended stay.

Student eligibility

The coordinator at each institution is responsible for operational management of the exchange and study abroad program. The coordinator will nominate students who are both academically and personally suitable for exchange or study abroad. Details of academic background as well as references will be provided. The home institution will be responsible to determine the language capabilities (as needed) of the student to study at the host institution. Students will satisfy academic and language requirements of the home institution prior to being recommended for exchange or study abroad. Each institution will review applicants for exchange or study abroad and reserves the right to decline admission of recommended candidates.

Insurance

The host institution will inform incoming students of health insurance requirements and availability. Each participant must provide his or her own health and accident insurance. Where necessary, proof of adequate insurance coverage must be provided to the international office before registering for courses. Exchange and study abroad students may be required to purchase supplemental insurance from the host institution.

Dependents

The obligations of each institution under this agreement are limited to exchange or study abroad students and do not extend to partners or dependents. Expenses of accompanying partners and dependents are the responsibility of the student.

Services

The host institution will provide orientation for incoming students. It will endeavor to ensure that students are admitted to courses regarded as essential. The host institution will provide academic and other advisory services for incoming students. It will assist incoming students to secure housing. The host institution will provide academic transcripts at the end of the period of study, giving details of the courses studied and grades and credits awarded. Exchange or study abroad students at Concordia College must request that a transcript be sent to their home institution.

Visa requirements

Each institution will provide reasonable information regarding visa requirements. Participants must complete visa applications and processes and meet visa requirements that pertain to studying in the host country.

Effective date and termination of agreement

This agreement shall be in effect for five years from the date of its signing. At the anniversary of the agreement, each institution will exchange a brief report indicating any issues or problems. I, the undersigned, Philippe Vendrix, President of the Universit  de Tours hereby certify, on behalf of the Erasmus Mundus Joint Master Degree "Infectious Diseases and One Health" (EMJMD IDOH) coordinating committee, our willingness to be part of the European Joint Action on Antimicrobial Resistance and Healthcare-associated Infections (EU-JAMRAI) as a stakeholder.

The EMJMD IDOH is a partnership of some of Europe's leading research-intensive universities in the field of infectious diseases and the "one health" concept. The three founding partners are Universit  de Tours, Universitat Aut noma de Barcelona and the University of Edinburgh. The EMJMD IDOH has also 35 Associate Partners, from research, industry and governmental institutions (<http://www.infectious-diseases-one-health.eu>).

The IDOH consortium is aiming to offer innovative postgraduate programme in infectious diseases emphasizing the three aspects of the one health concept: humans, animals and the environment. The IDOH programme implies mobility of students among the partners and associate partners. There is a maximum of 24 students in each intake, ensuring that all students receive the highest level of teaching and interactions with staff at all three institutions. These students come from all over the world with two third of them originated from non-European countries, particularly from the developing regions of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

The EMJMD IDOH is strongly committed to join the stakeholder forum of the EU-JAMRAI by promoting the responsible use of antibiotics and encouraging best practices among the general public and healthcare professionals and through higher dialogue with young population and mass media (WP8: Awareness raising and Communication). For instance, we have organized last November a symposium entitled “Infectious Diseases and One Health: from basic concept to action in Industry” in Tours, France. We had a full session on AMR entitled “One Health Action Plan Against AMR”, chaired by the Pr Marie-Cécile Ploy, in which we had a very interesting presentation given by the Pr Christine Ardal about “New economic models and incentives for antibiotic development”.

The attendees were our students, some executive staff from our associate partners worldwide, particularly those of the private sector, but also representatives from international health agencies such as the OIE. This kind of action promoting the responsible use of antibiotics will be organized again in the coming years. Promotion of the effective stewardship of antibiotics is also emphasized in the teaching programme of the EMJMD IDOH and will be regularly spread in various organizations worldwide through the IDOH student alumni.

Sincerely,
